Profile

Andy serves as a link between owners, architects and subcontractors – maximizing efficiencies by shaping projects on paper prior to the start of construction. Over the last 26 years, he has gained extensive knowledge, holding positions in pre-construction and project management in and around the Carolinas. He is a collaborative team player – providing real solutions for successful outcomes.

With prior experience in all major markets, Andy has delivered pre-construction services on more than $1.3 billion of projects with a primary focus on Construction Management and Construction Management at Risk. With this extensive background, Andy offers crucial knowledge and dexterity for Edifice’s pre-construction department.

Holding a Bachelor of Science degree in Construction Management, Andy currently sits on the board of the Charlotte Chapter Council for the Association of Builders and Contractors. He is a regular participant in the American Subcontractors Association of the Carolinas.

Active in the community, he has a long standing history in his service and support of Habitat for Humanity and the ACE Mentor program.

In addition, Andy enjoys travelling with his family to warm destinations, hiking and backpacking the Blue Ridge mountains, and surf fishing on the Carolina Coast.

“At Edifice, we are a true partner that provides early, accurate information so that our clients can make informed decisions on budget and schedule.”
